FAMILY TROUBLES OF THE HUDSONS

Husband Unsociable—Refused to Buy House—Wife Sues for Divorce.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Oct. 22.—The remarkable domestic troubles of Sarah and John Hudson were aired in the district court today, when John was ordered to fork over $50 attorney's fees and $30 temporary alimony, pending the outcome of the case. Mrs. Hudson is suing for divorce on grounds of unsociability on the part of her husband. Also he wouldn't buy her a house, but insisted on paying rent, though amply able to do either.

Many Charges Made.
Mrs. Hudson today filed a supplemental complaint, her husband having disarranged her first attempt by a rather pointed answer and cross-complaint. Hudson was in the district court with an answer to the supplemental complaint soon after his wife's attorneys left, and from present indications the fight will be warm.

In her original complaint Mrs. Hudson led with a charge of moral depravity on John's part, and failure to provide her proper entertainment. Hudson answered with sinister charges of scandalous actions on his wife's part. Ogden canyon resorts and other men figured in his cross-complaint. In today's complaint Mrs. Hudson charges cruelty on Hudson's part in defaming her character and those of her friends.

NEWS OF UTAH AND ADJOINING STATES

SENATOR REED SMOOT DELIVERS STRONG ADDRESS BEFORE BIG PROVO AUDIENCE.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Provo, Oct. 22.—Senator Reed Smoot, U. S. senator, speaking on the issues of the campaign, was greeted by a large crowd in the opera house here last evening, which paid the closest attention throughout the two and a half hours the speakers spent in discussing the promises made by the Republican party before elections in the past, and dwelling upon their fulfillment.

E. H. Thomas was introduced as chairman of the meeting, and Hon. Eph. Maynard, who acted for the Ladies' Republican club, under whose auspices the meeting was held.

Judge Maynard was introduced by the chairman, and declared that he was as desirous, as he knew the audience was, to hear Senator Smoot, and would occupy but a short time with his remarks.

"The coming election," he declared, "is of interest not only to Utah, but to all the country, for there is no state in the union which has two senators who are so favorably known than are those from Utah."

Rapid Advancement.
Reference was made to the phenomenal advancement of Senator Smoot in Congress as a senator, and Judge Maynard declared that Senator Smoot is now recognized as one of the greatest financial authorities in the country, and that upon the retirement of Senator Aldrich he would be at the head of the finance committee of the Senate.

Much complimentary mention was made of Senator Sutherland and Congressman Joseph W. C. Smith, and the speaker declared that Utah never has been nor ever will be better represented in Congress than it is today.

Comparisons were made of the criticisms of Lincoln with those which are today made of President Taft, and the speaker declared that the cost of the war which Lincoln waged was not so great as the cost of the civil war which is being waged today, which has always brought disaster when adopted as a national policy.

At the opening of the address of Senator Smoot, he stated that he desired to touch briefly upon two questions which are of great importance, which are uppermost in the minds of the people. These questions, he said, should be given the most careful consideration, for they affect not only this state, but the people of all other states.

Best Tariff Bill.
Senator Smoot declared that the tariff bill just passed is the best tariff bill ever enacted in the United States. "There are," he said, "some schedules which perhaps need changing, and so should be changed by the tariff commission board. If experience shows that the duty on any article exceeds the cost of production, the duty should be lowered here and abroad and a reasonable profit for the capital invested, the rates should be changed."

"I believe," he continued, "that a man who has worked for eighteen hours a day for three and one-half months, and who is entitled to a day's rest, is entitled to have his word on the question taken with as much consideration as the word of a man who has worked for a few days and is entitled to a day's rest."

Nothing about it except the repeated ravings of yellow journals."

In paying attention to the speaker, every interest known to Utah is protected. He cited the gypsum plaster industry, the promoter of which had made a great deal of protection when they were launching the new product. A duty was placed on the product and the result was that the product to the Atlantic seaboard and have competed with the imported article.

Taking up the liquor question, Senator Smoot declared that he practices temperance and preaches it, and that he would like to see the liquor traffic reduced to the minimum. He called attention to the declarations made in resolutions passed by the League of Day Saints' conference, and stated that he had voted for this resolution and would be glad to see it put into effect. He mentioned in it, nor was prohibition mentioned in any of the church rites, to which the prohibitionists made by the prohibitionists.

Successful Method.
In declaring his desire for the suppression of the liquor traffic, the senator expressed the belief that local option is the only successful method of dealing with the question.

"The people who do not want the liquor traffic can vote against it and will not have it. That officers who are elected to enforce the law, in the large cities, where the people do not want prohibition, a prohibition law would not be enforced and would result in the reduction of liquor consumption, but the traffic would be conducted in divers ways and could not be run without boys any more than can the saloons."

"If I should ever vote for anything that will put temptation in the way of a boy, but I firmly believe that the only way to deal with the liquor traffic is to let the people vote, and let the people vote."

"It has been charged that there was a deal between the Republican party and the liquor interests two years ago. I declare, if it is the last word I speak, that this charge is false."
